ABOUT OUR FESTIVAL

For more than four decades, the Berea College Celebration of Traditional Music has striven to represent homemade music passed on from person to person in the Appalachian Region and the musicians who play it. Old time string bands, blues, traditional gospel singing, ballads, and acoustic instruments are featured in a family-friendly atmosphere.

Since the festival's beginning, all its performances have been preserved in Berea College's Special Collections and Archives where they are studied by scholars and musicians alike. The Celebration gives voice to uncommon traditions that are seldom seen and heard while providing an entertaining experience for folk music lovers of all kinds. The diverse talents featured in the Celebration prove that traditional music lives and continues to expand and grow.

Berea College's students, faculty, and staff welcome the public to enjoy this weekend of roots music and dancing on our campus. Bring your instruments, feet, and voices, and enjoy the many jam sessions and opportunities to learn how to sing, play, and dance to this music. The Celebration of Traditional Music is supported by the L. Allen Smith Memorial Fund.
